REPORT OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

The annual report of the Civil Service Commission has been submitted to the President. Considerable misapprehension exists in regard to its contents, but we have only room for and attempt to refer briefly to the manner in which the examinations have been conducted and the results.—

The examination for admission to any department or great local office are conducted by a board of three persons, advised by the Commission and approved by the President. These examiners have nothing whatever to do with appointments or political questions, and are forbidden to take any part in getting others for appointment. There has been no complaint that they have ever done so. Indeed, they cannot. The rules fix the subjects on which applicants are to be examined. Full notice is given to those who have their first a wish to compete for places in the service, and have proper certificates of good health and moral character. The country is divided into five districts, so that those wishing to be examined may have an opportunity as near their homes as practicable. Each of these districts is a centre of competition, and all those residing therein, who may be examined, compete together. One of the examiners is the chief examiner from Washington, and the other two are taken from the public service in the district. The subjects on which examinations take place are as follows:—

"(1) For manship, (2) spelling and reading (either) (3) elements of English grammar, chiefly cutting; (4) geography, (5) arithmetic—fundamental rules, fractions, percentages, interest, discount, (6) elements of accounts and bookkeeping; (7) history, and geography—general questions, but equally such as relate to the United States; and (8) practical features of the operations of the United States.

Examinations for promotion relate to the practical duties of the office competed for—they require just such knowledge of each subject which any clerk ought to possess. The questions and answers are all in writing, and are preserved. The marking of the merits of the papers examined is as close as papers and, in fairness can be, as any with which I am familiar. The only case of any skill to injustice brought to the attention of the Commissioners was wrong, and shall be so decisively confounded that his applicant complaining shall cut his injustice in writing, in a letter published in the report. Lists of those examined in each district, with the markings and gradings thereon, are preserved in the departments. When there is a vacancy, the place must be filled by the Head of the Department or Office in which it occurs (an examiner) from one of the three having the highest marks on one of the lists of the District applicants. This method also enables appointments to be fairly apportioned among the several sections of the Union; and at the same time, gives no opportunity for solicitation, which, in the words of Mr. Jackson, "should be considered as a disqualification." Much of these fifteen persons really known to have faded rate at moments, the appointing powers at Washington select the highest character and best business agency among the fifteen. The cases must be rare in which those qualities will not belong to one of the first three, having the best attainments, who will be examined. It will be seen, that under this system the examiners are to judge of nothing which does not appear on the papers, and hence they have no chance to show favor, which cannot be at any time detected.

There are regulations to prevent applicants remaining unfamiliar on one trial, so as to get the same persons hang up many times among the first three, for securing a review in case of rejection, &c., &c.

Things are also pure name for special examinations, where the duties of a place are very peculiar, and require peculiar questions. An examination as published, the report shows that persons of ordinary capability can pass to appear at them. Those contesting have a strong interest and full liberty to expose bad characters, if it exists among the several applicants. Quite a number have been held at Washington, New York, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Savannah, with great success and small expense, and we believe to be held in other cities as soon as with history.

The proof seems to be decisive that the new system has to a considerable extent removed mercenary and partisan pressure from the Departments, has stimulated learning on the part of those desiring appointments, has secured a better class of persons in the offices, and has developed habits of study and industry.

The report shows that the members of the Cabinet bear this decisive evidence to the success of the reform. We copy the language from the report

"They consider that the rules have promoted the public interests in various particulars, and especially as to the following:

"(1) They have, on an average, where examinations apply, given persons of ample temperament and character to the service of the Government, and have tended to exclude unworthy applicants.

"(2) They have developed more energy in the discharge of duty, and more ambition to acquire information connected with the official functions, on the part of those in the service.

"(3) They have diminished the unreasonable solicitation and pressure which numerous applicants and their friends, composing for appointments, have brought to bear upon the Departments in the direction of favoritism.

"(4) They have, especially where competition applies, relieved the heads of Departments and of bureaus, to a large extent, of the necessity of devoting to persons soliciting places for themselves or others time which was needed for official duties.

"(5) They have made it more practicable to dismiss from the service those who came in under the civil service examinations, when not found worthy, than in any other way. It is also the unworthy persons who had been introduced into the service through favor or dictation.

"(6) They have diminished the intrigue and pressure, before too frequent, for causing the removal of worthy persons for the mere purpose of bringing other, perhaps inferior persons into the service.

"(7) And, for such reasons, those officers think that it is expedient to continue the reforms upon the method upon which it has proceeded, and to extend them to those such modifications in details as experience may show to be most useful."

There are also competitive examinations for promotions. These examinations are so framed as to call for and test practical knowledge in regard to the duties of the place sought, and hence vary greatly in the several Bureaus. The report goes forth a specimen of the questions. While it requires much experience to examine the practice of some fashions with the proper authority of the head of the Bureau, as to secure the greatest benefit in making promotions, the experience already gained shows that the system in many of the Bureaus, and that great improvements have already been secured. It is not to be expected that Heads of Bureaus would not desire to exercise a controlling discretion, but it is of great public importance to stimulate the ambition, and to encourage the industry of lower grade officers, and will be found to be a very great help to them in many ways, while the old system almost did not permeate.

It is also a part of the new system that clerks and officers in the service are not to be compelled to pay partisan assessments. They are to be at liberty to do as they please, as to contributing to their party.

IRREGULAR FINANCIER FROM ALFRED

Our readers cannot have forgotten the great railroad bond forgeries which caused such a stir in New York last summer. Over a million dollars in counterfeit bonds on the New York Central, Erie & Buffalo railroad Companies were negotiated, and some of the most prominent bankers in Wall street victimized. These bonds are said to have been the best executed ever put on the market.—In the autumn several arrests were made. The complicated partisans now in the Tombs, awaiting their trial, which comes off this week.

The moving spirit of this band of forgers, the most adroit and successful ever known, is the case of "Spinal Notice." Andy Roberts, a native of Alfred in this State. To his accounts laid the charge of projecting one of the most stupendous and wide-spread frauds ever sought to be imposed upon the business community.—The amount of these forged bonds executed and negotiated by Roberts and his confederates is said to reach nearly $2,000,000, and $1,000,000 were put upon the market before discovery was made of their fraudulent character. Roberts is said to have furnished the capital, amounting to $60,000 for the forgeries. They were so well executed that they deceived the president of the Erie road, whose signature had been forged, and he purchased to the amount of $10,000. By a mere accident suspicion was excited, and Allan Pinkerton's detectives were put upon the track. They followed up the scent with the persistency of bloodhounds, and last fall nine men were arrested. The detectives say that Andy Robertsfurnished brain as well as capital for the undertaking, and that he owned wonderful skill and shrewdness, displaying ability which could not fail to command success in higher and legitimate walks.

The good people of Alfred, where Andy was born and brought up, will not hesitate to believe the reports of his shrewdness and ability; but it is with difficulty that his old neighbors can be brought to credit the stories of his connection with the bond forgeries.—He is remembered by many of them as a bright-appearing, intelligent, well-behaved boy, with flashing black eyes, and curly brown hair. While yet a youth he went to New York as clerk for his brother, a saloon keeper in that city, and soon by industry and business capacity was able to start in business for himself and accumulate quite a property. He has been in the habit of visiting the native village every summer, where he has succeeded in making himself a general favorite by his genial manners. For a number of years he supported his aged father and mother now both dead, and even provided himself so affectionate and dutiful son. Many of those who know him best are loth to believe the stories current regarding him.

In appearance Roberts is a noticeable man. He is straight, slender figure, close cropping dark hair, small black glittering eyes, and quick, expressive face would immediately attract attention even in a crowd. His manners are cordial and gentlemanly, but there is a look of cunning as the features of his face, and a self-seeking gleam of suspicion in his dark eyes, which are strongly suggestive. To the school girl it would suggest romantic possibilities, to the detective criminal probabilities. The New York papers say that "he has been a dweller in the tents of Ishmael for a long time, that his financial operations have been irregular in the extreme, and that not unfrequently the name of some unsuspecting man is put to printing presses of his own. How that may be remains to be seen.

It is an welcome coincidence that the prosecution against him will be conducted by ex-Gov. Alfred Pike, Henry W. Allen, who is Democratic Attorney for New York city, Mr. Allen is the son of the late Judge Allen, was born and passed his youth and early manhood in the same village with Mr. Roberts.—When the latter was a mere boy and Mr. Allen a young man of twenty-one, he was a favorite companion of the latter. Curious to see how the training scene will be a suggestive one—25 cts.

DRESS IN YE OLDEN TIME

A great deal of valuable time is wasted by Congress, says the Boston Journal in discussing the appropriations for the White House. We take it that the people of the United States do not expect the President to pay from his salary for any expenses incidental to his position which are demanded by the people or arise from official intercourse. Mr Dawes read recently a list of these appropriations "for emergencies," and in which, in the expressive, a vigorous debate was opened.—Hon. George F. Hoar said with great truth that, when President Grant receives the crowd of citizens in the rooms at the White House, he gets as little of personal comfort or pleasure out of that evening's work as the humblest citizen of whatever rank, or whatever color, or whatever employment, to whom its doors are open." General Butler of course appeared in his role as volunteer counsel for the White House, and he stated that a watchman has to be kept in the East Room to prevent some people who go in there from cutting mementoes from the curtains. Curious ladies have cut slips from damask silk curtains, which they have made into pincushions. This is certainly disgraceful, but it is by no more reprehensible than to take the action of a fine-plated to see if the secrets of a committee could not be gleaned from the absorbed and ambient bits of paper which are thrown about there? General Butler in the course of a rambling speech said:

"Why, sir, I hear every day the claim that we ought to return to the "simplicity of our forefathers." I happen to have been a descendant of the "simplicity of our fathers." There was a "Jenkins" in those days as there is now. Let us begin with one of our "ninth sons."

"In the Penny Harding square, lonely and rad, sat as a lord touched with a silk tassel Pride, in a white satin silk. Dressed with gold, a red coat of pale blue brocade, blue satin sheen with court sword, and his hair in ringlets and with gold. The ingenious lady's bunches other was also wrought with gold, and he said to have cost not less than thirty dollars.

"Considering that the pay of a skilled workman was then fifty cents a day, thirty dollars then would be equivalent to about $60 now.

"Hand-dyes of scotch plaines, blue, white, and pale yellow, hair profusely powdered, gold or silver lace buttons, and worsted hat with gold band, and of fashion. Outside workmanship, prodigously valuable."

Who were the distinguished gentlemen present? Ask the attention of my Democratic friends.

"Of the distinguished gentlemen present the most conspicuous perhaps Mr. Thomas Jefferson, a long-waisted white cloth coat, the height of the then fashion, vest, black satin breeches, and pair of polished shoes, with silver buckles and white calf hose. Mr. Jefferson's head of sandy hair was covered from a slightly powdered wig of modest cocked hat of the last-of fashion. Fastened to the left side of the coat was a bunch of seven-shilling paste."

Now commend to my colleague John Randolph, of Roanoke, the gentleman who made such an immense signature on the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. John Hancock also attracted much admiration. He especially wore a "coat of sky blue of fine scarlet cloth, blue satin breeches, with white silk hose, a vest of white satin, richly embroidered with ruffled side-locks and a cocked hat with a black cockade. He rather more fop than Frank Pierce, and also looks of brilliant paste."

I imagine our colleague and friend from the Quaker City dressed up like this, for this is in Philadelphia and is a Quaker perform ance.

Mr. Garfield—That is when they drew it mild."

Mr. Butler of Massachusetts—I read further off.

I think they followed the fashion of that time, and we ought to now follow the fashion of the present for purposes of convenience—and give an outfit worthy of the President of a nation rich and powerful enough to maintain its place among the nations of the world.

So say we all. Even Mr. Cox expressed himself ready to sit without wasting any violent demonstration, should General Butler make his appearance in sky blue pantaloons and a dress the House.

The late French war, as is well known gave a new impulse, if not a new seat, to the sailing of boats meet. Horses that had been accustomed to the purposes that were victims of accidental injuries, or it may be that had died from disease, had previously been put upon the market, and had been bought by the unfortunate boat owners, who, however, soon found that they had made a considerable purchase of the people of Paris, with whom the inherent nature of the viand is, often, of less consequence than is the manner in which the quantities are smothered by the art of cookery. The war, however, created many and extraordinary demand, and vastly increased the number of the hippophagists, or horse-eaters. Horse beef came not only to be endured—a necessity of famine, but to be decidedly even preferred to that of cattle. And the necessity of war became a luxury of peace.—The tastes formed upon the battle-field have often come to be the strongest and the most fruitful sources of epicurean gratification. Dr. Kane, during his long winter of seclusion in the Arctic sea, appeased hunger and escaped starvation by eating the rats, which never forsook his ship while the elements abandoned it and its helpless crew to destruction.—The natural disgust for the vermin was soon displaced by a relish in which Dr. Kane continued to indulge, even in a land of plenty, so long as a good fat rat could be found.

The following figures will show how rapidly hippophagy has increased in Paris since the taste of horse flesh was forced upon the starving people by the Prussian siege. In the third quarter of 1867, the number of horses killed by the butchers was 963; and in the same quarter of 1873 the number was 2,048. This last number furnished 750,000 pounds of meat, not including the hearts, tongues, livers, and brains, all of which find a ready sale; not more as a matter of economy than of taste.

A Rambler says the Manchester (N. H.) Mirror tells he following: "I have a book of the sportsmen of Central New Hampshire, something of Ragged Mountain, the horns of coon and moose woodcock, and foxes, and a few bears; and these who know the mountain as a matter of course know also Uncle John Hallard, who tells Indies under the east side of the mountain, and who has for threescore years at two brooks content to brave the Winter storms, and Summer heats, resisting all the temptations to desert his clearing, and his humble cot in the forest for the enervating pleasures of village life.—John's pants are chips of an old block—a stalwart old uncouth, as good shots and as wild, as opposed to luxury, and as well acquainted with the denizens of the woods and waters, from which most of the food they have ever eaten has been secured. A year ago this Spring, while prospecting about the side of the mountain, John's boys found a family of mink, two old ones and four young. The young were quite small, "toothless and furless," and therefore harmless. The old ones were nearly as worthless, they further being in that season both thin and poor and after considering awhile, the boys concluded to try and have trouble quite the next winter. Accordingly went to work and constructed a rough box, about twelve feet long by one foot high, and six wide. Into they carried to a brook near the cabin and by placing one end in the brook, so arranged a swimming home in the box. The other end about a foot deep, and in it was thrown a mass of green boughs, on which were renewed as they withered through the Summer. This constituted the couch, and into it were put the mink, and during the Summer and Autumn was added until the colony numbered twelve. They were fed on wild meat, the carcasses of woodchucks, hedgehogs, and squirrels, and bye fish which were caught in nets and put into the brooks beside the box. The minks thrived and grew wonderfully, becoming as fat as pigs, and long quite an hairy. Last winter they were taken out and skinned. The pelts sold for $57.

STATE STREET.

Messrs Burr & Robinson of Exchange street, have just purchased of Mrs. Dr. Hayes her fine property on State street, corner of Harlow street, for the sum of $16,000. The property is valued at $20,000.

For the year ending March 31st, 1874, the Bangor Savings Bank has received deposits to the amount of $1,000,000. The number of depositors is 4,000.

The Universalist Parish of Bangor have sold their house on Union street, to the Universalist Society, for the sum of $4,000. The property is valued at $6,000. The city will lose $2,000 by the sale.

It cost $2,126 last year for the support of the poor of Lewiston. There were 1,400 paupers on the city farm.

Orrin Haddock, a native of Old Bilton years old, accidentally shot himself in the abdomen Monday while cleaning a gun, and death will probably ensue.

Two hundred and eighteen dogs were licensed in Lewiston last year and contributed in that aggregate the munificent dollars to the city treasury.

A lobby named John Booth was arrested at Old Orchard, on Saturday, for larceny at the depot. He is suspected of committing other larcenies in that vicinity.

The E. & M. Railroad Company have three tracks in active use at Orchard Beach, the third track being laid down for the accommodation of freight. It is unlikely to be in order.

The great railroad bond forgeries which caused such a sensation in New York last summer are said to have been planned by Andrews Roberts, a native of Alfred. He has been arrested. It is a curious coincidence that the prosecution against him will be conducted by another Alfred man, Henry W. Allen, who is District Attorney in New York city. Mr. Allen is the son of the late Judge Allen, was born and passed his youth and early manhood in the same village with Mr. Roberts.

The Journal says that at a special meeting of the City Council of Augusta, Saturday afternoon, the Auditor to whom was referred the accounts of the Collector and Treasurer, reported that he had examined them and finds that he has been ready to go, and that from the accounts and vouchers which have been submitted to him for examination, he finds it exceedingly difficult if not impossible, to arrive at a reliable or even satisfactory conclusion in relation to the receipts, disbursements, cash in the treasury, or balance of uncollected taxes. Notwithstanding this report, the City Council, after referring the communication back to the Auditor, with instructions to submit his report in detail of the condition of the city finances, went into joint convention and elected Thomas Leith, the present incumbent of the office of Treasurer and Collector

THE FINANCE BILL VETOED

The long and painful uncertainty concerning the final disposition of the finance bill which has been before the President since Thursday of last week, has been dispelled by the welcome news that yesterday afternoon he returned it to the Senate without his signature. The announcement will be received with rejoicing by all who desire the Government to fulfill its contracts and redeem its pledges, and it is a heavy blow to the ladies from which they will hardly be likely to recover during the present session of Congress

We publish elsewhere the message accompanying the bill on its return, giving the reasons for its non approval. It is a practical common-sense document and will be read with interest. The President agrees with the ablest financiers that the bill increases the paper circulation of the country and that the theory of inflation is a departure from the true principles of finance. He justly says that its approval would be inconsistent with every message he has previously sent to Congress on the subject, and in conclusion earnestly repeats his former recommendation for such legislation as will secure as speedily as practicable a return to specie payments, enforcing his point by referring to the pledges of the Government to make provision at the earliest possible moment for the redemption of United States notes in coin

This is sound doctrine, and the President stands by his record in a manner exceeding by gratifying to all who have watched the delicate attempts of the inflationists to commit him to measures which must in the end result disastrously to the credit of the nation. The bill on itself might have proved to be in practical operation of not much account, that is with reference to the immediate inflation. If the seven per 10 cent gold provisions, as we have already pointed out, might have contained an elusive but rich mine was the unprecedented fact that it was an open and direct violation of the solemn pledges made to the bond holders. The bill might have been, there is no dispute that a three cent issue of greenbacks but if taken as a full standing, would no prove a benefit to the people and this was enough to condemn it.

All honor is due to President Grant, whose every action clearly proves his desire to preserve the public faith as well as an immediate check upon the progress of increasing profligacy and corruption, and tend to settle the disturbed finances of the country upon the substantial basis which has alone proved adequate to the wants of

The recent [illegible] disaster in Louisiana [illegible] a letter of the Mississippi, appears [illegible] and [illegible] information becomes [illegible] complete. The latest despatches [illegible] that several parishes, including some [illegible] are inundated, and that distress will be caused to no less than [illegible] people. The sugar plantations will be [illegible] for two years and the crops in [illegible] will be cleared, as frequent [illegible] the crevasses. The greater part of [illegible] region is occupied by small [illegible] who will be reduced to want by the [illegible]

The Army of the Society of the Army [illegible] will hold its [illegible] annual encampment of the Grand Army [illegible] at Harrisburg, Pa. on [illegible] 19th and 20th of May, are almost [illegible] Arms Corps meeting [illegible] on the 19th followed by a [illegible] evening Tuesday will be occupied [illegible] of the Society of the Po[illegible] and a [illegible] corps societies, and in the evening a public reception will be given [illegible] Hartranft and there will follow a [illegible] at the house of the Society of the Potomac. Wednesday the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will convene and in the evening the public proceedings will be closed by a banquet in honor of the delegates to the Encampment. Generals [illegible] Sheridan, Hancock, Burnside, McDowell, Belknap, Franklin and other [illegible] members are expected. Excursions will be tendered by the various railroads and arrangements are made for at least [illegible] stay.

A member of the late anti-inflation Committee who is warmly [illegible] President Grant a few days ago [illegible] the statement of Ben Butler that any one who [illegible] the President in the [illegible] and urged him to [illegible] a veto if that Committee had [illegible] dictate to him position during the [illegible]

There will be [illegible] Arrangements for the [illegible] of Adolphus Meeks in Chicago in June [illegible] issued invitations to about thirty persons to prepare speeches for the occasion Among those are Vice President Wilson, Mr Garrison, John Bright, Horace Bucher Stowe, Charles Francis Adams, General Howard and Horace Greenwood Biographical sketches of representative men are also to be read

A Washington despatch states that Representative Cypher is preparing a bill to provide a new form of Government for the District of Columbia It proposes to make the Vice President ex officio President of the Commission, the other four members to be appointed by Congress The accounts of the District are to be placed in charge of a board of three auditors.

This most gratifying assurance concerning the sentiment of the West on the inflation question is published in the St. Paul Pioneer.

We want to enter a protest against the assumption of the Eastern press that the people of the West favor inflation. It is the misfortune of this section to be as badly misrepresented in Congress on that as on nearly every other public question. Not a public meeting of any kind, nor board of trade, nor a single citizen that we have heard of, has petitioned for any such stupendous folly; and as for that matter, editors of the most intelligent papers are opposed to it. While the public sentiment of the State is represented at Washington as all one way, the fact is that inflation cannot muster a corporal's guard among men of average education in Minnesota." The complete failure of an attempt hold an inflation meeting in Cincinnati on Friday gives additional force to this statement.

THE MISSISSIPPI FLOODS. A New Orleans despatch says that Capt. Porter of Steamer Alice, reports the whole of the Amite valley under water. The river generally has a bank o 12 to 15 feet, but now the water is four feet deep over the banks and has washed away houses, implements, etc., and the inhabitants have fled to the highlands, where they now abide in a destitute condition. Gen. Jeff Thompson, Chief State Engineer, sends a despatch saying that the Bickog crevasse is 1000 feet wide inside and passes seven feet of water at a velocity of eight miles per hour. The two McCullister crevasses are each one hundred and fifty feet wide, but will be closed in a few days.

A Memphis despatch says the Memphis and Charleston Railroad tracks now run through, when those of the Mississippi & Tennessee rust. The Memphis & Louisville road is still obstructed on the Clarksville division, but telegrams state that the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers will overflow bridge on that route. Meantime trains will be run to Louisville via Nashville. Reports from the lower Arkansas and White Areas give gloomy accounts of the inundation. Thousands numbers of stock are drowned and actual destitution prevails in many places. The Howard Association of Memphis has sent $2,500 to the Howard Association of New Orleans for the sufferers from the overflow.

NEW SWEDEN.

REPORT OF HON. JOHN S. ARNOLD ON THE CONDITION OF THE SWEDISH COLONY IN AROOSTOOK.

AUGUSTA, April 23, 1874.

The Hon. John S. Arnold, who was appointed at the last session of the Executive Council to investigate the condition of the Swedes in Aroostook county, has reported to the Governor and Council that of the 150 families in the colony of New Sweden, 225 are doing well, all making a comfortable living while improving their farms. Mr. Arnold further says.

"The early and severe frost of last season was particularly hard on this new colony on account of their small clearings, and the 26 remaining families, who have from three to five acres each, ready for the seed, will be unable to put in even this small amount with their assistance, as in many cases their crop of last year was entirely cut off

"If they could be furnished with seed sufficient for the few acres they have prepared, say to the amount of 300 bushels in all, of rye, barley, oats and potatoes, and in some cases a little assistance about putting it into the ground, they will be able to sustain themselves with the lumber until the crops come off.

"The town of Lyndon is furnishing aid to five of these families, with the expectation of being reimbursed by the State.

"In my mind there is a peculiar hardship in the case of these few families of the colony, who have through sickness in some cases, and death in others, fallen in the rear, coming here as they have at the solicitation of the State, they should not, it seems to me, be reduced to paupers, at the first unfortunate that operates them, when, by furnishing the small amount necessary, the State would save in money, save in the gratitude of these poor people, as well as the damaging effect on their friends at home who think of joining the colony here.

"In the matter between Woodland and the Swedish settlers on that plantation, in regard to their taxes, the inhabitants of Woodland feel considerably embarrassed. They know all the hardships of new settlements, from the first clearing up to the thrifty and independent farmers, and naturally feel a kindly interest in these new settlers

"The Swedes claim they should be exempt from taxation until 1875 by virtue of a certain document circulated in Old Sweden containing that promise, which should apply to them as well as to the settlers of New Sweden, as they were never notified to the contrary until called upon to pay

"After careful inquiry I am inclined to the opinion that this claim is good so far as it applies to those of the first colonists that were settled in Woodland, but those settled later I think must have understood they were liable to pay plantation tax As discharging will make matters worse, if the State in its generosity should decide to pay their taxes, which would be $50 or $60 a year, it would relieve all parties."

The report was referred to the Committee of the Council on Public Lands and Buildings, who reported that Mr Arnold be authorized to carry out his recommendations in regard to supplying seed and assistance to the colonists, to the amount of 25 bushels of barley, 25 of rye, 50 of oats, 150 of potatoes, and a few bushels each for wheat, peas, and grass seed

It is said that a pamphlet in which he shows the position of the Late Senator Sumner on the Alabama treaty and his personal relations with President Grant and Mr. Fish is being prepared at Washington

An amendment to an appropriation bill has passed the House which legislates Government Printer Clapp out of office on the 1st of July and restores to the President the right to appoint his successor It has yet to pass the Senate

Gov Washburn, the new Massachusetts Senator, does not propose to leave for Washington till the first of May, but has written to Senator Boutwell that if any measures should come up in the Senate requiring his presence and vote he will start at once for the Capital.

Mr Thomas Talbot, the Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts, who will succeed Governor Washburn, is now in Texas on a visit to his brother He is a manufacturer of woolen goods at Bid Africa, near Lowe), and is a son in law of the late Lieutenant Governor Joel Hayden The office runs in the family

"Perhaps by next year," says the New York Tribune, "the State of Massachusetts may be inflicted into the knowledge that there are other things more important than the unity of party organization." When the Republicans of Massachusetts reach a level they will know how to cross it, but they do not propose to fuss much about the stream, when it will take three years to reach its banks.—Boston Journal.

The Hon. A. H Stephens has so far recovered his health as to be able to write a two-column letter accusing the Hon. B. H. Hill of "shamelessness, impudence, and recklessness" which "could not possibly have been exceeded by Berere himself." Mr. Stephens says he exhausted himself before he half exhausted the subject, and he promises to return to it so soon as his strength will permit.

A Troy cremationist asks, wouldn't it be pleasant to receive a despatch something like this some day

Dear Mother—William died at noon to day. Ashes by mail. Yours in sorrow, JOHN SMITH

THE CREMATION PROPAGANDA. A German correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette writes: "The cause of cremation is making further progress. The furnace intended for the experimental burning of the dead, now in building in Dresden, is to be completed in a few weeks. Meanwhile a cremation society has formed at Vienna under the appropriate title of 'The Urn,' and has obtained the Government's consent for instituting similar experiments. The furnace to be built in Vienna will be after the design of Professor Reclam, of Leipzig. 'The Urn' has a goodly roll of members to show already, and every day is said to witness additions. In Zurich, Swiss papers affirm, cremation is in are spoken of and cradles greater attention and zeal than even the proposed revision of the Federal Constitution, on which a vote is to be taken shortly."

The examination in the cases of Dr. Ubling, Louise Garms and Charlie Finck, for conspiring to defraud the Mechanics' Life Insurance Company of $10,000, has been concluded in the Tombs Police Court, New York. A motion to discharge the prisoners was denied, and the doctor and Louise were each committed for trial in default of bail.

The Carlists before Bilbao have been compelled by the heavy fire of the Republican batteries to abandon their positions at Portugalete and San Tomas.

The labor question in Brooklyn is an effort on the part of ward politicians to force the Board of Aldermen to pass a law that the Board of City Works shall pay street and other laborers the same money for eight hours' work as is paid by contractors to laborers for ten hours.

The receipts from Internal Revenue Wednesday were $185,702.

Your obedient servant,
JOSEPH A. SMITH,
General Agent "Little Giant" for Maine

FIRE DEPARTMENT OFFICE,
City Hall, Boston Feb. 13, 1873

MESSRS. GILES & GORDON.

Gents In answer to your inquiry of the 10th inst., as to my opinion of the power and utility of the small Chemical Fire Engine as furnished the City of Boston by the Fence Gubbins, and stationed at the building known as the Gubbins, as an auxiliary to the extinguishment of fires, I would, may first, that I speak of the combinations by which we have the Hunsel and Chemical Engine Combined in this is superior to the chemical Engine alone I consider it a valuable machine to carry engines into the Department, being effective and reliable in the early stages of the fire, as well as very desirable in that of extinguishing where but little water is required. In towns and villages as well as manufacturing places, your Machine would be very advantageous, and in all wishing to purchase the same, I can cheerfully recommend it.

I have the honor to remain,

DR. SCHENCK'S

Standard Remedies!

The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea-weed Tonic, and occasionally Mandrake Pills, and if taken before the lungs are deeply set, a speedy cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup dispels the morbid matter in the lungs, causing it to ripen, when by copious expectoration, when the ripe matter is cast up, a slight cough will throw it out, and the patient finds the lungs healed.

To assist the Pulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea-weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relieve the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, the alkali of which it is composed mixes with the food, and prevents acidity, it assists digestion, by toning up the stomach to a healthier condition, so that the food that Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood, then the lungs heal, and the patient will rapidly recover. It is taken to prevent fresh colds.

Dr Schenck can be consulted at the Quincy House, Boston, on Wednesday, March 25th, April 8th and 22nd, May 6th and 20th.

Advice will be given free, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer, the charge is $5.00

THE BILL RETURNED

WASHINGTON, April 22. At 3 30 o'clock, the private Secretary of the President, delivered the message to the Senate, which was read immediately at the request of Senator Conkling. The following is the FULL TEXT OF THE MESSAGE.

To the Senate of the United States:

I herewith return the Senate bill No. 617, entitled An Act to fix the Amount of United States notes and the circulation of National banks and for other purposes, without my approval.

In doing so I must express my regret at not being able to give my assent to a measure which has received a sanction of the majority of legislators chosen by the people to make laws for their guidance, and I have studiously sought to find sufficient arguments to justify such assent; but unsuccessfully. Practically it is a question whether the measure [illegible] give an additional [illegible] paper currency or [illegible] whether [illegible] be received by the banks and prohibiting [illegible] on the [illegible] but [illegible]

It is a duty, and one of the highest duties of the Government, to secure to citizens a medium of exchange of fixed, unvarying value. This implies a return to a specie basis, and no substitute for it can be devised. It should be commenced now and reached at the earliest practicable moment consistent with a fair regard to the interests of the [illegible] [illegible] to pay beyond their contracts the premium on gold at the date of their purchase and would bring bankruptcy and ruin to thousands. The fluctuation, however, in the paper value, of that measure of values, gold, is detrimental to the interests of trade. It makes the man of business an involuntary gambler, for in all sales where future payment is to be made both parties speculate as to what will be the value of the currency to be paid and received. I earnestly recommend to you, then, such legislation as will insure a gradual return to specie payments and put an immediate stop to fluctuations in the value of the currency.

As early as December 4th, 1865, the House of Representatives passed a resolution by a vote, 144 yeas to 6 nays, concurring in the [illegible] of the Secretary of the Treasury in relation to the necessity of a contraction of the currency with a view to as early a resumption of specie payments as the business interests of the country will permit, and pledging co-operative action to this end as speedily as possible. The first act passed by the 41st Congress on the 18th day of March, 1869, was as follows: —

"An act to strengthen the public credit of the United States. Be it enacted, &c., that in order to remove any doubt as to the purpose of the Government to discharge all its obligations to the public creditors and to settle conflicting questions in the interpretation of the law by virtue of which such obligations have been contracted, it is hereby provided and declared that the faith of the United States is solemnly pledged to the payment in coin or its equivalent of all the obligations of the United States and of all the interest bearing obligations, except in cases where the law authorizing the issue of any such obligation has expressly provided that the same may be paid in lawful money or in any currency other than gold or silver, but none of said interest bearing obligations not already due shall be redeemed or paid before maturity, unless at such times as the United States notes shall be convertible into coin at the option of the holder, or unless at such time the bonds of the United States bearing a lower rate of interest than the bonds to be redeemed can be sold at par in coin; and also the United States solemnly pledges its faith to make provision at the earliest practicable period for the redemption of United States notes in coin."

This act still remains as a continuing pledge of the faith of the United States to make provision at the earliest practicable moment for the redemption of United States notes in coin.

A declaration contained in the act of June [illegible], 1864, created an obligation that the total amount of United States notes issued or to be issued should never exceed four hundred millions of dollars. The amount in actual circulation was actually reduced to three hundred and fifty-six millions of dollars, at which point Congress passed the act of February 4th, 1868, suspending the further reduction of currency.

The forty four millions have ever been regarded as a reserve, to be used only in case of emergency, such as has occurred on several occasions and must occur when from any cause revenues suddenly fall below the expenditures, and such reserve is necessary, because the fractional currency amounting to $50,000,000 is redeemable in legal tenders on call. It may be said that such a return of fractional currency for redemption is impossible, but let steps be taken for a return to specie basis and it will be found that silver will take the place of fractional currency, as rapidly as it can be supplied.

When the premium on gold reaches a sufficiently low point, with the amount of United States notes to be issued permanently, within proper limits, and the Treasury so strengthened as to be able to redeem them in coin, on demand, it will then be safe to inaugurate a system of free banking, with such provisions as to make compulsory redemption of circulating notes of the banks in coin or in United States notes themselves redeemable and made equivalent to coin. As a measure preparatory to free banking or for placing the Government in a condition to redeem its notes in coin at the earliest practicable moment the revenues of the country should be increased so as to pay the current expenses, provide for the sinking fund required by law, and also a surplus to be retained in the Treasury in gold.

I am not a believer in any artificial method of making paper money equal to coin, when coin is not owned or held ready to redeem the promise to pay, for paper money is nothing more than promises to pay and is valuable exactly in proportion to the amount of coin that it can be converted into. While coin is not used as a circulating medium, or the currency of the country is not convertible into it at par, it becomes an article of commerce as much as any other product. The surplus will seek a foreign market as will any other surplus. The balance of trade has nothing to do with the question. The duties on imports being required in coin, create a limited demand for gold, and about enough to satisfy that demand remains in the country. To increase this supply I see no way open but by the Government hoarding through the means above given, and possibly by requiring the national banks to aid.

It is claimed by the advocates of the measure herewith returned that there is an unequal distribution of the banking capital of the country. I was disposed to give great weight to this view of the question at first; but, on reflection, it will be remembered that there still remains $4,000,000 of authorized bank note circulation assigned to the States having less than their quota, not yet taken. In addition to this the States having less than their quota of bank circulation have the option of $25,000,000 more, to be taken from the States having more than their proportion. When this is all taken up, or when specie payments are fully restored or are in rapid process of restoration, it will then be the time to consider the question of more currency.

Executive Mansion, April 22, 1874.

SATISFACTION IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, April 22. There seems to be great satisfaction here among reputable bankers, merchants and others outside of speculation circles at the announcement from Washington that President Grant has to-day vetoed the finance bill. The effect on the stock market was that of depression. Erie dropped to 34 and other stocks fell from one half to one and one-half per cent.

RELIEF IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, April 22. The announcement from Washington that President Grant had vetoed the currency bill produced a strong feeling of relief and is the absorbing topic of conversation and congratulation to-night all over the city.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

ARREST OF ESCAPED PRISONERS

GREAT FALLS, April 22. The two murderers who escaped from Ossipee jail were captured yesterday about six miles from Ossipee.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

NASHUA, April 22. Daniel Sargent, a quarryman at Milford, was fearfully mangled to-day by a premature explosion, and cannot recover. John S Sargent, with him, had his face badly burned and the sight of both eyes destroyed.

NEW YORK CITY.

NATIONAL BOARD OF FIRE UNDERWRITERS

NEW YORK, April 22. The National Board of Fire Underwriters met at their Hall to-day. Among the companies represented were several from Boston, Hartford, Meriden, Middleton, Albany, Pittsburg, Minnesota, Maine, England and Glasgow. The Treasurer's report shows the receipts at about $60,000 against an expenditure of $59,000. The President read the annual address. The total receipts for premiums of 187 companies last year were $56,403,496, and the losses paid $45,580,000. The companies are about 60 per cent better off this year than on the 1st of January, 1872. The losses during the past three months are $17,000,000 more, than for the same time last year. During the year Mansard roofs had been removed from 63 buildings and the schedule rates were in force in Boston not a single wooden Mansard roof has been erected in the burnt district of that city. Chicago had also adopted the schedule. Good results had flowed from the meeting of fire engineers at Baltimore last fall and it is believed that if the sapper and miner corps had been in existence in Boston or Chicago millions of dollars would have been saved. Convictions of arson are more numerous since the abolition of the paid punishment for this crime.

A resolution was adopted that in every case where an agent is convicted of violation of the rules he shall collect the additional premiums or cancel the policy, and the Executive Committee was empowered to impose a fine in addition thereto if advisable.

RASCAL SENTENCED.

In the Court of General Sessions to-day John Galvin charged with being connected with the assault on Mr. Adolph Hauch and the robbery of his jewelry store on 9th Avenue in January last was found guilty and sentenced to 20 years in the State's prison. Galvin was formerly a keeper in the Tombs of the Tammany Ring persuasion.

ERIE AGAIN

A letter is published from J. S. Hunchen, general accountant of the Erie Road, pronouncing Diman's statements correct, saying he does not care to act contrary to his convictions and tendering his resignation. President Watson's reply says his resignation is immediately accepted and that having been instructed to make a true and correct abstract of the books, he (Hunchen) cannot or will not do it.

CHEAP TRANSPORTATION.

Among the statements made in the report of the Committee on Cheap Transportation which reported the bill for a double track railroad yesterday was one that the chief trunk railroads west from New York are the same four which have been in existence the last twenty years and the Committee remark that they were all built without any regard to the great through business which now demands transportation to and from the seaboard. The Committee consider that the building of a through road which shall be devoid of the existing objection will enable producers of all classes to be largely benefitted as five times the number of trains from the extreme West can then be safely run to trans port the grain and other freights. The company which guarantees to construct and operate a road with the above advantages desires the Government to adopt the line as a national undertaking to the extent of guarantee interest at 5 per cent on $20,000 per mile of single track not to exceed a total of 3,500 miles.

THE ARKANSAS IMBROGLIO

THE SKIRMISH TUESDAY NIGHT.

ST. LOUIS, April 22. A despatch from Little Rock, speaking of the skirmish last night, says that a man wearing a U. S. soldier's cap, supposed to be Col. Rose's orderly, closely followed that officer, with a revolver in each hand, which he rapidly discharged into the crowd of Baxter's troops and citizens. Fire was then opened by Brooks' partizans and Baxter's troops, supposing the fire came from the Federals whom they were ordered not to attack, fell back, but when the true character of the attack became known, they returned the fire.

THE PLAN OF BROOKS' PARTY

was to rest behind their barricades while their lines were stationed behind the Federal troops and Baxter's forces were to draw the fire upon the Federals.

ANOTHER REPORT.

A special to the Globe says that Col. King White said in his speech to the colored troops that he would capture the State House without regard to Gov. Baxter, the Federal troops, or the devil. Col. Rose mounted his horse at the City Hall and rode down to the crowd and ordered King White to stop that noise. White replied, "Damn you, I command these troops"; whereupon White's troops immediately commenced firing at Rose, resulting in the killing of David S. Hall, and the wounding of Crawford, one of Baxter's officers. Brooks' forces were all inside the State House grounds.

BAXTER PROPOSES TO SUBMIT THE QUESTION TO THE LEGISLATURE.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., April 22.

To the President of the United States;

As I cannot move with my troops to assert my claims to the office of Governor without a collision with the United States troops, which will not do under any circumstances, I propose to call the Legislature together at an early day and have them settle the question, as they alone have the power; but to do this, the members of the Legislature must have the assurance of protection from you and a guarantee that they can meet in safety. This will be a peaceable solution of the difficulty, and I will readily abide by the decision of the Legislature.

(Signed) ELISHA BAXTER,
Governor of Arkansas.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C., April 22.

I will give all the assistance and protection I can under the Constitution and laws of the United States to such modes of adjustment. I hope that the military on both sides will be disbanded.

(Signed) U. S. GRANT.

ACCIDENT ON THE E. & N. A. RAILWAY. The freight and passenger train, from Fredericton Junction for St. John, met with a very serious accident about a mile below Welsford Station, Monday morning. The train was made up of three flat cars, loaded with cord-wood and ship-knees, three box cars and the baggage and passenger cars— There were about 50 passengers on board. The accident seems to have been caused by a stick of cord wood falling off under the trucks of the forward car, which tore the track to pieces, when the coupling between the flat and box cars broke, and the latter ran down the embankment and stuck in the mud, which alone saved the passenger car from following the others over the embankment. The concussion when the car stopped was quite severe, but strange to say not any person was injured. About two hundred yards of the track were torn up, and the end of one of the box cars was left across it, so that it had to be shifted round in order to let the Bangor Express pass.

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT IN OLDTOWN. Mr. Editor:—The ladies of Oldtown have held three meetings in aid of the temperance cause, each increasing in interest. The last held Tuesday afternoon was well attended, and those present all expressed the readiest and most earnest feeling in this work of reform. The sentiment was universal that the hand of God was impelling this enterprise, and that all women who desired here the advancement of morality and Christianity should unite in faithful prayer and all hopeful effort for the suppression of intemperance. They recognized it to be a work of time, steadfast patience and self-denial, all of which recommended it the more to their serious attention and earnest effort. They rejoiced that here the men had not left the work for them to inaugurate, but had themselves taken the advance, and they trusted that when the day of difficulties, of obstacles and persecutions, come—if such should come — if sacrifices of personal interests should be at stake, the men would not then fall in the rear, would not put the women in the front in the day of battle, or desert their standard altogether. The ladies would stay up their stronger hands and work with them through evil and good report to the end. The next meeting will be at the vestry of the Congregational church next Tuesday afternoon. A full representation from all the different societies is urgently requested, and the presence of all who have an interest in the work of morality and education in Oldtown.

THE TEMPERANCE CRUSADE.

PRIMARY MEETING FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF A "CRUSADERS" CLUB—SPEECHES MADE, ETC.

Agreeable to the call for a meeting of young men to form a "Crusader's Club," City Hall was well filled last evening, and the primary steps toward forming an organization to assist the ladies in their war on rum, were taken. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Henry Hill, who nominated Geo. W. Snow, Esq., as chairman. Mr. Snow on taking the chair briefly thanked the young men for the honor conferred, and proceeded with the business. Mr. W. I. Wood was elected secretary, after which Mr. G. E. Ingalls offered the following preamble and resolution:

Fully believing that intemperance is an evil of gigantic proportions, not only in our own vicinity, but throughout the land, and that temperance is a virtue which should be cultivated by all, of whatever age or sex. And whereas, a number of the women of our city have associated themselves in efforts to check and suppress this terrible vice, and have engaged in a "crusade" against the sale and use of intoxicating drinks in our city, Therefore,

Resolved, That we, the undersigned, young men of Bangor, irrespective of party, sect or faction, hereby agree to form an organization, to be known as the Young Men's Crusade Club, for the purpose of aiding, by all proper means, the efforts of the above named "Women Crusaders" of Bangor, to suppress the traffic in, and use of, intoxicating liquors, and to stay up their hands and encourage their hearts by our sympathy in their noble and self-sacrificing labors.

The preamble and resolutions were adopted, and calls were made for Col. James Dunning, who came forward and addressed the assembly, saying that he was rejoiced to see so many young men before him, and it was the largest gathering he ever saw to a young men's meeting in Bangor. He told them that at this time of their lives it was best for them to come out and adopt habits and principles of temperance, as in a short time they would be called to fill the places occupied by the old men. In habits of intemperance there is no real pleasure, nor is there any compensation. If young men come forward and take the pledge it will be the best act of their lives. Nothing so raised a man in his estimation, he said as to hear him say that he did not drink. Often on inviting a man to drink he had been rebuked by hearing that man say, "I do not drink now, I have left off." He referred to the time forty years ago, when it was not considered a disgrace to drink, and then mentioned in connection with the reference that he had seen on the books of the Mercantile Association in Boston the names of business men and their record, showing what they were worth and whether they were teetotallers, moderate or excessive drinkers, and said that a young man who does business and trades in Boston, if he takes an occasional glass of liquor the fact is recorded on those books. There is nothing so fatal, he said, as is the use of liquor, and young men have nothing to sacrifice in signing the pledge. The act will be one to be proud of, and even if one should afterwards fall and be dragged down to a drunkard's grave he would look back and be proud that he once signed the pledge and for a time kept it. The Colonel gave in the course of his remarks several instances of the results from the excessive use of liquor which came under his personal observation.

The next speaker, Mr. Henry Hill, who is one of the young men engaged in the new movement, said that the club about to be organized is for the purpose of assisting the ladies and our young men, that they can meet and talk the subject of temperance over among themselves, as at the mass meetings older and more eloquent men do the speaking. If, said he, the young men come forward and sign the preamble and resolution they will help on the good work. He referred to the crusades in olden times, when the people went forth thinking that it was the will of God, and said that the present crusade is for the purpose of rescuing the temple of American manhood from the destroyer and success will come, for God is with the movement. In the war men fought, bled and died to preserve the physical life of the nation, and the call comes for men to preserve its moral life, and the cry should ring out—"We are coming three hundred thousand more!"

J. W. Donigan, Esq., being called for, said that he felt it his duty to come forward and respond on this occasion when the young men call, having resolved to assist the ladies in the suppression of the greatest evil on the face of the earth. In looking over the audience he said he felt that the young men he saw before him meant business, and that the good cause would prevail. It made his heart leap for joy to see them come up and prepare to render every assistance to the ladies. We see living examples every day of the fruits of intemperance, and we should now prepare to come forward and be men. That the young men meant to sign the preamble and resolution he had no doubt, and they would go on against all opposition, for nothing can now put a damper on this movement. Bangor and Maine have reason to be proud that this young men's movement originated in this city. These are the men who will soon come up and take the reins of government and they will be men, for they are resolute.

Mr. Evans of the Theological Seminary said that he had known something of the vices which degrade man, especially intemperance, but he now abstained from them. The sacred temple of manhood is undermined and destroyed by intemperance, and work must be done to save it. He referred to the slaying of Goliah by the youth David, and said "Are there not little Davids in Bangor?" If you try God will help you, and you have only to take the sling, resolution, and the giant will fall from the force of the stone thrown from it. It is dreadful to see a wreck go down on the ocean, but it is a more terrible thing to see manhood wrecked and sunk. The young ladies, he said, can do much. In olden times a young woman, Esther, saved by her prayers the ablest man in her husband's kingdom, and if they work they may do much to help the State, the nation and the world. The speaker in closing said that men would be raised up hereafter who would look upon drunkenness as we do now upon thieving and robbing, and the intemperate man will then be kept from office in state and nation.

Mr. G. E. Ingalls explained the purpose of the club about to be formed, which in brief is as follows: The club will have a president and other officers for the transaction of business, it will have a sort of a uniform for parade, be divided into companies with captains, and will be ever ready to render every assistance possible to the ladies in their crusade against intemperance.

S. F. Walker, Esq., said he hoped that all the young men present would come forward and join the club. He said he had arrested 5310 persons, and nine-tenths of these owed their arrest directly to rum. He had no sympathy for the rumseller, and wished that the sun and moon might stand still, and cross the heavens in letters of fire might appear the words, "Whoever sells a drop of rum shall be hung within thirty days." He wanted them to have thirty days for repentance, and he would like to be hangman for Bangor under such an edict. When the rumsellers of the city see the present movement and those engaged in it, they ought to be ashamed of themselves and their business.

Mr. N. A. Mathews made a few remarks in which he said he did not think it right for him to go to a liquor seller, with a jug of liquor in a bag on his back, and ask the seller to stop his traffic. This is what is done by keeping an Agency and trying to close up the saloons. He was glad that the young men are moving and that they will aid the ladies.

After the speeches a committee of three Messrs. Hill, Ward and Ingalls, was raised to draw up a Constitution for the Club and appropriate by-laws.

One hundred and forty of the young men present signed the book containing the preamble and resolution and the meeting then adjourned to meet in Temperance Hall next Wednesday evening at half-past 7 o'clock for the purpose of completing the organization.

KEPT ALIVE BY FELLOWS' HYPOPHOSPHITES.—This is to certify that in the autumn of 1867, I contracted a severe cold and cough, and was seized with pains in the chest and back. I obtained medical advice, but the prescriptions affected no good whatever The cough kept growing worse, and other symptoms set in which complicated my case, until finally I was given up to die, by three physicians, who said I was far advanced in consumption, and could not recover.

I had been fourteen months gradually wasting away, unable to perform the lightest service, and fast approaching the end. At this time I had never heard of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, but some of my family noticed the letter from Capt. Coffill concerning the cure it had effected in his case and I was persuaded to send for some of the medicine.

I commenced to take it in accordance with directions, and before I had used half a bottle I was able to resume light work in my shop, and notwithstanding that my disease was so far advanced as to be incurable, by taking use of it from time to time during the last three years, it has sustained my strength and enabled me to knock about and attend to my work. I feel certain that had I used it at an earlier stage of the disease it would have effected a perfect cure.
